Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 02 December 2008.
- 2a) ☒ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☐ This action is non-final.

DETAILED ACTION

The following is a Final Office action in response to communications received, December 02, 2008.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-28 and 52-61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hendricks et al (5,990,927) in view of Gormley et al (5,806,057).

Hendricks et al. shows all of the limitations of the claims except for specifying a verifying that data is new content/which is content not currently stored, by comparing the received data sent from the sending apparatus to data stored in memory/storage means and adding only the new content included in the received data to the second memory/storage means automatically based on the results of the checking.

Hendricks et al. shows, figure 1, an advanced set top terminal for cable television delivery systems. The system has an operations center 202 (first storage, host side device, first sending/receiving (S/R) unit). The Cable Headend acts as the retrieval unit, decision unit, reproduction unit and the second SIR. Note that the Cable Headend acts as a distribution center and a network controller. The ability to recognize and store data is inherent in these functions. Supplemental data can be provided when user requests more (intent of user). Communication links allow requests and replies to be sent and received. Hendricks et al. discloses the dependent claims in the present application, such as claim 8, wherein Hendricks et al. disclose different audio quality can be achieved upon request (Figure 21 for CD quality audio option). Hendricks et al. also teach subscriber payments (request for payment).

Referring to FIG. 22, the advanced system of the set top terminal 220 is used to control video tape machines and simplify recording programs using a Guide Record feature.

The VCR will be automatically activated to record the selected program (automatic storage of the data received by said second sending receiving means, only data selected will be recorded, appended supplementary data) The selection choice "Press here to return to cable TV" is an indication user is not willing to make payments.

Gormley et al. teach management of databases of communication recipients including checking whether received contents are new by comparing received data with data previously stored in a database and adding the new content if in fact it is new. See column 12, lines 30-39.

Based on the teaching of Gormley et al., it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to modify the Hendricks et al. system to incorporate adding only new content in order to avoid the storage of duplicates.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to all claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. See above.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
